

WOVEN FRICTION MATERIALS

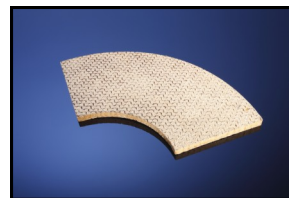

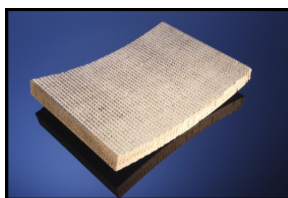

With over 40 years of manufacturing experience, Trimat produce and supply an impressive range of woven brake linings from our U.K factory. Our reputation for quality and service means Trimat brake linings are used across numerous industries and applications around the globe.

All materials are non-asbestos and available with or without a metallic inclusion. The use of high grade yarns such as Kevlar, Twaron and Panox together with our advanced resin technology ensure consistently high performance and durability.

Products are offered in rolls, cut pieces, radiused linings, flat sheets, rings, segments and cone linings.

Specifically developed materials for oil immersed and other specialist environments are also available at request.
