

Protection against digital risks

Funk CyberSecure

Even the best IT system in the world is never completely protected against attacks and errors. Acute threats include data protection violations, criminal cyber attacks and IT system failure due to technical faults. The potential damage can hardly be imagined. Past attacks on large corporations and institutions, such as on the IT system of the German federal parliament, show just how real the threat is. But small and medium-sized companies are at least at just as much risk with their own digitised value-adding chain.

Our recommendation for you

Every company faces a different risk landscape, and this affects even previous policies that have included cover for cyber risks in different insurance modules. We think it is important to have an individual cyber solution that suits your company's specific situation. That's why our consultation starts with an analysis of your risk landscape. Our modular Funk CyberSecure insurance solution was developed by us and focuses exclusively on your company's individual needs. CyberSecure has a wide range of applications: it does not matter whether damage occurs as a result of a hacker, DoS attack, careless or dishonest employee or a technical fault. – CyberSecure covers financial losses incurred by the actions of third parties or the company itself. Third-party claims, especially those arising from data protection violations, breaches of trust or network security breaches, are also covered. First-party loss is insured, including costs incurred due to statutory or regulatory reporting requirements, as well as various service and consultation costs (such as IT forensics and the costs of restoring your systems and data). Loss of earnings due to interruptions to business operations, cyber theft and loss of turnover following damage to your reputation are also insurable.

What we provide

- Calculation of your risks through an individual needs assessment and risk analysis
- Development of risk-avoidance and risk-spreading measures as well as emergency plans
- Customised insurance cover for your individual risk situation

Your added value with Funk

- Complete cyber risk support in devising an insurance programme and risk management approaches
- Exclusive Funk cover scheme well above market standard
- Comprehensive insurance solution across different areas of risk from the cyber field
- Access to expert cyber teams (legal, IT, media and insurance experts)

Find out more about Funk: funk-gruppe.com