

As an owner-managed family company, m & k gmbh has been offering its customers a comprehensive service in the field of precious metals since 1991. From the production of new products containing precious metals to repairs and the recycling of unusable old goods, we are at your side with their specialist knowledge and experience.

We recover precious metals from almost all raw and processing forms for you, e.g. Made of tooth gold, old jewelry, dross and much more, regardless of the amount and nature of the starting material. All processes run under controlled and documented conditions, as well as taking economic efficiency and environmental protection into account. If desired, the results can be checked by external laboratories and confirmed with analysis certificates. So you always have full control over your material and recycle with a clear conscience.

In recent decades, m & k gmbh has developed into a leading supplier of semi-finished products and finished products containing precious metals for industry, trade, research and medicine.

The regional anchoring on the outskirts of Jena, in the vicinity of research centers and specialist clinics, the specialist potential and know-how of the precision engineering and medical technology industry in the surrounding area and the infrastructure-favorable location mean important competitive advantages and determine the strategic direction of m & k gmbh.
