

Customization of Rugged computers

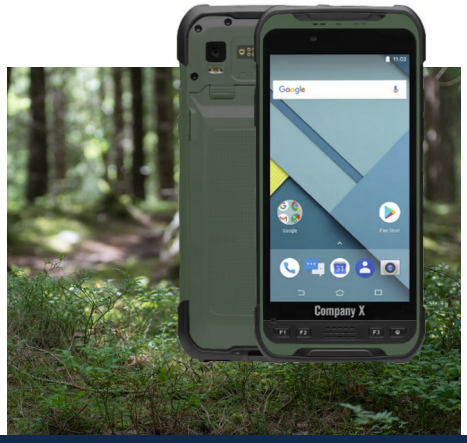

We accelerate your innovation

In addition to our off-the-shelf solutions, we offer options for customized versions of our products, or even custom-built devices for your specific requirements. If you need an innovative product for a specific need, we will work with your team, analyze your specific requirements and potential solutions, and build the right tool for the job.

We support you with our many years of experience from the initial planning stages through development to maintenance and active support of your product.

Your challenge is our driving force.

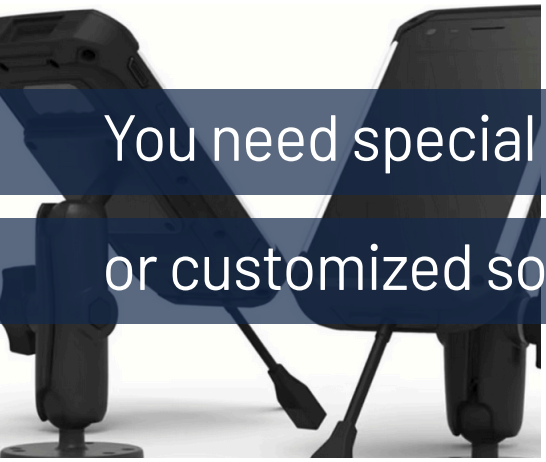

Your branding, Your colors, Your Logo

All our rugged handhelds come in a standard light-gray case color. But if you have a specific color requirement, we're able to color-match our plastics to a specific Pantone color or physical sample.

You need special accessories or customized software?

Accessories designed for your needs

To ensure our customers can use our devices for maximum efficiency, each Nordalp rugged computer comes with an extensive accessory ecosystem. But we have the resources to develop a new accessory if you need something special.

We develop your individual software solution

At Nordalp, we create software tailored to your needs. Our team has extensive experience in developing software for Android and Windows, as well as in implementing barcodes (1D/2D), RFID (LF, HF, UHF), GNSS (RTK), and much more.

Our competitive advantage lies in our extensive knowledge of our own devices during development. This enables us to optimally integrate your software on smartphones, tablets or other mobile devices. We will personally support you from the very beginning with a dedicated contact person and a team that understands your vision.
